

Opsview Quickstart Surgery

The Opsview Quickstart Surgery is ideal for anyone evaluating Opsview or planning the implementation of their first Opsview system. You get a one-to-one session with an experienced Opsview consultant who will provide insight, advice and answer all your technical questions.

What you get

Participating in an Opsview Quickstart Surgery enables you to quickly and efficiently get all the answers you need.

We will:

- Answer any questions that you have for your software evaluation
- Provide insight to future product roadmap
- Share real-life implementation experiences from existing customers
- Direct you to the relevant technical resources, documentation and case studies to support your information gathering
- Help you with system planning and design decisions to help you achieve a trouble free Opsview installation.

By investing in a Quickstart Surgery early on you will save valuable time during your evaluation and receive a richer and more accurate understanding of Opsview's abilities, ensuring you make the right choices now and in any subsequent implementation.

Free if you subscribe

Anyone evaluating Opsview is eligible for a Quickstart Surgery. If you choose Opsview and sign up for an Enterprise Service Subscription we will credit the full cost of the Quickstart Surgery against your initial annual subscription fee.

Delivery and duration

The standard Quickstart Surgery is two hours. The session will be delivered via a WebEx web conference that provides voice & video conferencing, screen sharing and white boarding capabilities. Two members of your team may participate in the session. Longer or multiple sessions are available upon request. Please email opsview@opsera.com for details.
